

Research Scholarships for PhD candidates in the Sociology Department, National University of Singapore

Research Scholarships are available for PhD candidates interested in completing research in the Sociology Department at the National University of Singapore. Two research scholarships are targeted specifically for applicants who have basic knowledge and skills of quantitative research in family, children and youth, social inequality, demography, or social changes in China. Please see information about the research programme and scholarships in the departmental website.

<http://www.fas.nus.edu.sg/soc/>

Applicants must be university graduates with at least second class honours (upper division) degree or equivalent and at the time of the award of the Research Scholarship, must have applied for and been assured of admission as a PhD candidate for the graduate research programme at the Department of Sociology. There is no restriction on the nationality of applicants.

The application deadline for the August 2009 intake is 15 November 2008. All applications (complete with application form, application fee payment and supporting documents) must be received by the stipulated deadline.

For more information about Research Scholarships, please click here. The application materials can be downloaded from here.

<http://www.fas.nus.edu.sg/prospective/grad/research/sch-SC.html>

Candidates should apply to the Department of Sociology and indicate that they are applying for the Research Scholarship in the Sociology Department, by indicating SOCFQC at the top right hand corner of the hardcopy application form. Candidates applying online should do likewise after printing out the completed application form for submission.