Focus Gender & Gender Studies

The upcoming issue of the Austrian Journal of South-East Asian Studies aims at featuring a focus on Gender and Gender Studies in South-East Asia. Of special interest to the board of editors are submissions dealing with one or several of the following issues:

- The situation of Gender Studies within the academic sphere and Social Sciences: Gender discourse (its topics, aims, relevance, actors etc.) within South-East Asian Studies and in Social Sciences and Humanities in the region itself and or from a comparative perspective.
- Possible methodological or theoretical specifics in gender related research in SEA; state of the art in SEA-Masculinity and Women's Studies.
- The correlation between Gender Studies and politics or religion in SEA.
- SEA Gender Studies in the context of academic publishing and reception in SEA and South-East Asian Studies (especially from a comparative perspective).
- Gender Studies theory development from a SEA perspective.
- The institutional environment for the study and research in the field of Gender Studies in South-East Asia or from outside the region with a regional focus on SEA (please also take note of our category "Network South-East Asia Research aiming at presenting academic and independent research institutions and / or to announce and summarize conferences) as well as submissions dealing with specific contexts for research on gender issues e.g. research situations in the field.
- We also want to invite submission of interviews for this issue (therefore please contact the board of editors)
- Extended submission deadline ASEAS 3(2): September 30, 2010
